

Thread

jelani cobb

@jelani9

Here's a bit of writing advice I often share with students: engineers don't look at a bridge the same way pedestrians or drivers do. The former understand the bridge as a language of angles and load bearing structures. Writers should read books in that same way.

4:44 PM · Dec 20, 2021 · Twitter for iPhone